

Investigate the impact of large African snails on the surrounding environment

Description

Ella: powerpoint designing, morax: writing paragraph, Harry, information searching, Lucy, information searching

Features

The adult shell length is generally 7-8 cm, and the maximum can grow to more than 20 cm.

The shell is slightly fusiform, about 8 cm high, Shell surface white or yellow, with reddish-brown stripes or burnt brown cloud pattern; No operculum, when encountering dryness or hibernation secretes milky white mucus membrane to close the shell opening.

